²² And he said to his disciples, "Therefore I tell you, do not be anxious about your life, what you will eat, nor about your body, what you will put on. ²³ For life is more than food, and the body more than clothing. ²⁴ Consider the ravens: they neither sow nor reap, they have neither storehouse nor barn, and yet God feeds them. Of how much more value are you than the birds! ²⁵ And which of you by being anxious can add a single hour to his span of life? ²⁶ If then you are not able to do as small a thing as that, why are you anxious about the rest? Luke 12:22-26

This September, the media, school boards, teachers and parents are all talking about Critical Race Theory (CRT). How are we Christians to respond to this new philosophy? Our District President Lucas Woodford wrote an article on the subject. I think it is worthwhile to share his information with the congregation. Pastor Bob

CRT is . . .

Critical Race Theory (CRT) is an academic and philosophical discipline now mainstreamed in multiple segments of American culture. Public schools and higher education, the broader American business world and marketplace, as well as progressive politics are all inundated by it. However, it's also impacting the life of congregations and their members. As Christians, we want to know how to fight against the sin of racism, uphold biblical justice, and love our neighbor, all while not letting a dangerous ideology sabotage our trust in Jesus Christ and His Word of truth. In short, CRT is made up of activists and scholars engaged in studying and transforming the relationship among race, racism, and power. It expresses the desire to fundamentally alter the control of power between majority and minority groups, particularly in favor of "antiracist" morals. To be antiracist means one must actively fight against racism, while also holding to the view that white people must admit their social privilege, their fragility in discussing issues of race, and that America itself was created by white supremacists who were intent on upholding white supremacy. Therefore, the theory holds that whole systems (and not just people) are racist and need dismantling. The goal of CRT is to promote a social justice movement that deconstructs and upends power structures in favor of the oppressed and the promotion of equality. Note that CRT interprets "equality" not to mean equal opportunities, but equal outcomes. For instance, an Illinois school district declared that white students would not be allowed in the staggered return to post-COVID in-person classes until after all minority students were welcomed back first. Such discrimination is considered antiracist because it seeks to level a perceived unfair playing field. In other words, CRT claims racial discrimination can be a good thing even if it disadvantages some groups of people—as long as those people are not a minority. However, if a policy merely promotes equal opportunities, it is considered racist and must be eliminated in favor of equal outcomes.

CRT is concerning for Lutherans.

Most important for Christians to understand is that CRT is not just a theory; it is an ideology—an all-encompassing philosophy that directs thoughts, actions, and interactions with others. If that sounds like a religion, that's because it is one. CRT has at its core a creed, one that does not interpret the world in terms of spiritual forces of sin and grace, but in terms of subtle material forces, such as systemic bigotry and diffuse omnipresent systems of power and privilege. Logic and facts play no inherent formal role and are useful only if they can support and intensify the emotion being expressed, as well as make the case for obtaining power to subvert all oppressive forces. As Christians who believe in objective truth, right and wrong, and good and evil, we need to freely acknowledge the sin of racism, the horrors of slavery, and the evils of segregation and discrimination. We must not ignore how injustice, brutality, and years of mistreatment of black people have often resulted in a life of horrifying meaninglessness, hopelessness, and lovelessness. However, seeking true biblical justice cannot mean we embrace a dangerous ideology—CRT—as we defend our neighbor. The ideology of CRT smacks up against biblical teaching. It fails to see that injustice is due to sin and that not all sin is due to racial bias. Biblically orthodox Christians are right to be concerned about CRT's disavowal of objective truth and the cosmically created order. The fundamental biblical tenets that are displaced by the dogma of CRT are extensive and alarming. They include, but are not limited to,

- Creation, original sin, and actual sin as understood according to the Ten Commandments
- Objective truth, redemption, and salvation through Christ alone
- Personal accountability and responsibility
- Vocation and love for our neighbor
- The role of repentance
- The new baptismal life that comes from living with faith, hope, and love

Two-kingdom theology instead of CRT.

Lutherans have a clear alternative to this destructive ideology, one that not only prizes biblical justice but provides a clear ethic of faith and life. The Christian lives life at the intersection of two kingdoms: the spiritual kingdom and the temporal kingdom. Here, the object of faith is always Christ (spiritual kingdom) and the indirect object of faith in action is always the neighbor (temporal kingdom). At this intersection, Christians live within their daily vocations, which God designed for us to serve and care for others in our life. Therefore, when we couple the doctrine of vocation with the doctrine of the two kingdoms, we find a vibrant and practical alternative to the ideology of CRT. Accordingly, there is certainly an ethic that the Church and her individual members are to undertake in the care and love of the neighbor, particularly in the face of social injustices and oppression. This two-kingdom ethic of love is subsequently employed in the daily vocations of every Christian. Those daily stations of life begin in one's family and extend to their station as employer, worker, community member, church member, and citizen. We have a robust theology of faith and love—we live always and only by faith in Christ and by love for the neighbor for His sake. Individually and corporately, we are called to the baptismal life, dying daily to sin and rising each day to newness of life in Jesus. As we confront racism and social injustices with God's condemning law and reconciling grace, we believe, teach, and confess a living Lord Jesus Christ who is the light of the world—the light no darkness can overcome.

In the joy of Jesus,

Pastor Lucas

BIBLE READING SCHEDULE

When Christ commissioned the Apostles to evangelize the world, He said that they should make disciples in all nations by means of baptizing and by teaching them everything He had commanded them to teach (Matthew 28:18-20). As the education programs of the church and state gear up again, note how God's Word speaks about teaching in our Bible Reading Schedule this month (Ezekiel 44:23; Daniel 1:4; Luke 11:1; 12:12). God's Word teaches a Christian life-style different from the sinful life-style of the world (Daniel 3 & 6). A Christian life-style is one of hearing God's Word, confessing one's sins to God, and believing that for the sake of Christ we will be forgiven (Daniel 9:1-19; Psalm 111). It is a life lived knowing that by God's grace in Christ one will rise from death to eternal life in heaven. (Ezekiel 37; Revelation 21-22)

Linda began the meeting with devotions and prayer.

Radio monitoring list set up and going well. A lot of people continue to donate to this mission.

Greeters – always need more greeters especially during summer. Talked about giving out small bags with our church events and group info on it and other items to give to visitors. Pastor would like the confirmands to become greeters so they can build relationships. Anita is going to look into getting coins made with our church info on it to pass out to visitors, people @ stores or wherever we are out and about in the community.

Closed with the Lord's Prayer.

Public Relations

LWML will be putting out a mite box on the 2nd Sunday of each month to collect mites for missions' projects. Thank you for your support on this project.

September, 2022, Newsletter

The second Sunday of each month Cotta Guild will place a "Mites for Missions" donation box at the north and south entrances to the church. You are invited to donate and help support global missions that have been approved by the LWML (Lutheran Women's Missionary League.) From 1943-2012, LWML donated $100 million for mission projects. This is bountiful giving! Two of the mission grants that were approved by our Minnesota South District LWML for the 2022-2024 biennium are the following:

- $10,000 for financial assistance for the Concordia Theological Seminary, Fort Wayne, Indiana, Food and Clothing Co-op. The funds will purchase perishable food items for our future pastors and deaconesses who are studying at Concordia Theological Seminary.

- $20,000 for general operating support for The Dwelling Place. The Dwelling Place provides supportive, transitional housing (in MN) for women and children fleeing domestic violence. It is a faith-based program and mentors' women and their children to become self-sufficient and committed to living a spiritually-centered healthy life.

Two of the approved mission grants by the national LWML are the following:

- $56,000 for Light of Christ in Eastern Europe. The Lutheran Church is striving to meet the urgent need to bring the love of Christ to German and Czech citizens, as well as to immigrants and refugees settling in Germany. This grant will help support eight missionaries in these countries.
- $65,000 for the LAMP Ministry (Lutheran Association of Missionary Pilots). LAMP

Ministry has been using small aircraft to take the Gospel message to the Indigenous people in remote areas of northern Canada. This grant will fund airplane instrument upgrades to ensure safety for LAMP's missionaries and pilots. Based on the Biblical account of the widow's mite (Luke 21:1-4), the Mite Box is intended for regular contributions of "mites" – offerings above and beyond the support given to the congregation and the Synod. Mite Box contributions amount to millions of dollars that fund district and national mission grants and implement the LWML program.

Small Mite Boxes are also available for you to take home in which to put your coins and bring them to donate for mission projects when we have the larger Mite Boxes available on the second Sunday of each month. Information about more of the LWML's mission projects will be in future church newsletters.
